Quakers & Publishing

Saturday, October 24, 2026, 3pm to 8pm (UK time)

A one-day, online-only meeting for writers, publishers, booksellers, and anyone else interested in the work and ministry of sharing words in the world.

Speakers: Rashid Darden, Joanna Godfrey Wood, Brian Drayton, Nancy Thomas, Oscar Lugusa

Is Quaker publishing defined by the identity of its creators, by theology and practice, or by the way values such as simplicity, peace, integrity, equality, and community are embodied in the work? What stories are Quakers uniquely positioned to tell, and how can those stories reach readers beyond the traditional Quaker audience?

And can Quaker publishing thrive amid today's economic and technological realities? The Fall 2026 QUIP gathering invites participants to think not only about what Quakers publish but about how publishing can become an expression of Quaker values and a meaningful form of ministry, witness, and cultural engagement.
